

Russia Proposes New Suez Treaty

Urges Draft of Measure by 8-Nation Group

Proposal Follows Egypt's Rejection Of Western Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Russia proposed today that the United Nations set up an eight nation negotiating committee to draft a new treaty guaranteeing freedom of passage through the Suez Canal.

Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov suggested informally that the committee should comprise Egypt, Britain, India, France, Russia, the United States, Yugoslavia and Iran or Indonesia and Sweden. Shepilov's suggestion came after Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi rejected the proposal of Britain and France that the U. N. Security Council endorse the London conference proposal to internationalize the canal. Fawzi also suggested a negotiating committee.

Shepilov said the committee could be instructed to draft a treaty to replace the convention of 1888 governing Suez Canal traffic and be instructed to prepare an international conference "to be attended by all countries using the Suez Canal" to consider and approve the new compact.

"The most important vital problem facing hundreds of millions of people today in all continents," Shepilov said, "is the problem of peace. The positive settlement of the Suez problem in the U. N. would not only promote the strengthening of peace and security in the Middle East, but would also answer the essential interests of all countries, including Britain and France."

Shepilov, like Fawzi, rejected the plans to internationalize the Suez and pointedly remarked that the Panama Canal was controlled by one country—the United States.

He denounced Britain, France and the United States for starting economic sanctions against Cairo by freezing Egyptian assets in their countries after the canal seizure.

Shepilov accused "American oil monopolies" of planning to take over the administration of the canal under a "consortium."

"In connection with the Suez problem, increased activity is in evidence on the part of certain monopolistic circles in the U. S. A. and, primarily, on the part of the major oil and shipping concerns. For example, the American press is widely commenting on the project of setting up a consortium. The aim of this consortium is stated rather modestly—to finance technical improvements on the canal."

"In reality, it is not technical problems that the sponsors of this project are concerned with. The U. S. monopolies are bent on taking over the Suez Canal, on establishing de facto control over its administration with the intention of reducing to naught the nationalization of the Suez Canal company in this roundabout way."

Fawzi accused Britain and France of refusing to pay canal tolls and instigating non-Egyptian pilots to walk off their jobs.

Forester Warns Illinois Areas Facing Dangerous Fire Season

By United Press
The "fire season" has arrived in Illinois, along with the end of the summer rains and the coming of fall.

"It could," said farm forester Waldon Lewis, "be the worst fire season we've had since 1952, which was about the worst that I can recall."

Lewis, whose office is in Jerseyville and whose job is fire prevention in Jersey, Greene and Calhoun counties, is worried about the prospects of heavy fire losses in Illinois forests and fields this year.

"The conditions are growing extremely hazardous now, particularly in central Illinois, where it hasn't rained for several weeks," he said. "A little more dry weather and killing frost and we are really going to have a bad situation," he said.

Lewis said some rain fell in the southern counties a day or so ago, which will relieve the danger there for three or four days. "But heavy summer rains resulted in a heavy growth of vegetation," he said, "and as soon as it gets dry, it's going to be dangerous."

Most fires break loose, he said, when farmers fail to take necessary precautions, like plowing a fire line around the area to be burned or burning without sufficient help or tools to combat a fire if it gets away.

It is also important, Lewis said, to pick a good time to start a fire, when the wind is low and the humidity high.

Lewis said most farm area fires are started by farmers burning trash, brush or weeds. Last September 62 field and forest fires burned over about 1,200 acres. Six fires were recorded in October of last year which burned about 60 acres; 26 fires in November with 630 acres; and 22 fires with 433 acres in December.

So far this season no major fires have been reported, although a few fields of wheat stubble have burned. Lewis would like to keep it that way.

Bank Cashier Says He Turned Over $85,000 to Epping

Is First Witness As Senate Group Opens Hearings

CHICAGO (AP) — Ralph Schlitz, cashier at the Southmoor bank, told today how he turned over $85,000 in cash to deposed State Auditor Orville Hodge's assistant.

Schlitz, first witness before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee as it began hearings here, testified about the one-million dollar swindle involving Hodge, his assistant, Edward Epping, and the former Southmoor bank president, Edward A. Hintz.

All three are now serving prison terms, but were brought here to testify.

Casey Roper Dies At Carrier Mills; Funeral Wednesday

Casey Roper, retired coal miner who resided on Walnut street in Carrier Mills, died today at 6 a. m. at the age of 71.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Roper.

He is survived by his wife, Laura, one son, Cecil, two grandchildren, a half sister, Mrs. Marion Craig, a half brother, Orville Roper of Carrier Mills.

Funeral services will be Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the Carrier Mills Baptist church where he was a member. Rev. Ernest Ammon, pastor, will conduct the service and burial will be in the Salem cemetery.

The body will lie in state at the residence. The Miller funeral service of Carrier Mills is in charge.

Palbearers will be James Martin, Lace Kirts, Aud Dallas, Frank Ashby, Orb Wilson and Calep Rose. Flower girls will be friends and neighbors.

terms, but were brought here to testify.

Schlitz testified he handed Epping $85,000 in cash on Oct. 14, 1955. He said Hintz wrote a draft for that amount on the First National Bank, "the Southmoor bank's correspondent."

Schlitz, who was loan teller at Southmoor at the time, said Hintz handed him the draft along with a letter introducing him to Verne Bartling, vice president of the First National.

Hodge "Self-confident Politician" — On Hintz' instructions, Schlitz said he went to Meigs Field to meet Hodge and Epping, who were flying in from Springfield. Before their plane arrived, he said, Hodge's chauffeur, Victor Stroupa, drew up in a black Cadillac bearing Illinois license No. 4.

Schlitz said he assumed this was Hodge's car.

He said Epping whom he knew, introduced him to Hodge on their arrival. He said Hodge impressed him as a "well groomed, self confident politician."

Schlitz said they drove to the First National Bank, but that Hodge got out downtown near the bank. Schlitz and Epping entered the bank and went to Bartling.

Under questioning by Sen. William Fulbright, Schlitz said Bartling showed no surprise when presented with the letter and the draft, even though Schlitz said the transaction was unusual.

"I think Mr. Hintz had talked with Mr. Bartling by telephone prior to my arrival," Schlitz said. Schlitz said an assistant cashier took him to a teller's cage where he got the cash, in large bills.

"I think they were $500 bills," he said. "They didn't even make a bulge in my breast pocket."

Schlitz said he and Epping then drove to Meigs Field, and en route Epping handed Schlitz $85,000

Dodgers Do Not Get Runner To First Base

Yankees Take Series Lead With 2-0 Victory

NEW YORK (AP) — Big Don Larsen pitched the first perfect game in World Series history today as he did not allow a single Brooklyn batter to reach base in shutting out the Dodgers, 2-0, to give the New York Yankees a three game to two lead in the 1956 classic.

Larsen, a playboy by night but quite a pitcher by day, threw only 97 pitches as he turned back 27 Dodgers in a row, 7 of them on strikeouts as he made a fourth inning home run by Mickey Mantle and another Yankee run scored in the sixth inning stand up to put the Yankees ahead in the series for the first time.

Larsen's teammates carried him off the field as he blew a third called strike past Dale Mitchell, pinch-hitting for Sal Maglie, to end the game.

So perfect was Larsen's hurling that he threw three balls to only one batter—PeeWee Reese in the first inning. Then with a three-two count he slipped a third called strike by the Dodger shortstop. Some Brilliant Fielding

It took brilliant fielding by his teammates to make his perfect game possible.

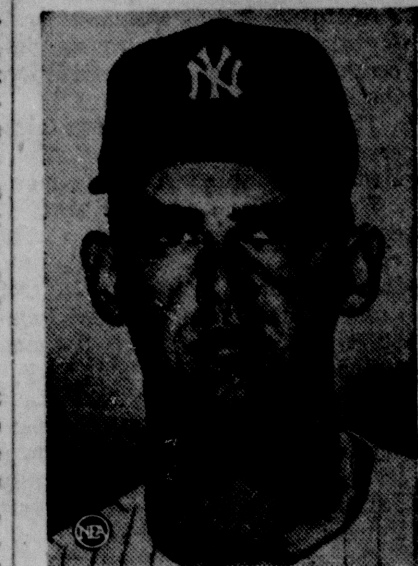

In the second inning, Jackie Robinson hit a hard ground ball to the left of third baseman Andy Carey which looked like a hit. But Carey got his glove on the ball and deflected it to shortstop Gil McDougald who threw Robinson out at first.

In the fifth, Mantle made a diving catch in deep left centerfield to rob Gil Hodges of an extra base hit and the next batter, Sandy Amoros, then lined what looked like it might be a home run down the rightfield line.

But at the last minute the ball curved foul by inches—foul by about as far as Mantle's fourth inning drive was fair.

Mantle's homer—his third of the series and his eighth in series play—was the first hit given up by Maglie, who lost a heart breaker.

The 39-year-old Dodger curve ball specialist, who had won the first game of the series, gave up only five hits. But the first one would have been enough for the tall, good looking Larsen.

Don Larsen

Justifies Stengel's Faith — Mantle's count was 2 and 2 when he drove a Maglie curve ball into the stands.

In the sixth, the Yankees added an insurance run when Carey led off with a single. With two strikes on him, Larsen sacrificed Carey to second, from where he scored on Hank Bauer's single.

Maglie was to shut out the Yankees after that, getting the last three hitters he faced in the eighth inning on strikes.

But as good as his pitching was,

Iowa, a State in Balance

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

Evidently no state in the nation is more misunderstood politically than Iowa, and the misunderstanding seems destined to persist thru the campaign year 1956.

It stems from the old notion that Iowa is almost as rock-ribbed Republican as Maine in presidential elections.

From that point the argument
proceeds that if a Republican candidate is sagging in Iowa, he must obviously be in considerable difficulty in the entire country.

But the facts of Iowa's recent election history do not support the contention that it is a top Republican state.

Since Franklin D. Roosevelt came on the scene in 1932 there have been six presidential elections. Iowa has cast its electoral vote right down the middle, three times for Democratic nominees
and three times for the GOP.

For contrast, look at Michigan,
with heavily Democratic Detroit and other industrial areas. It has chosen Democratic Gov. G. Men-den Williams four straight times and elected a Democratic senator in 1954. Yet since 1940 it has voted consistently Republican at the presidential level.

Iowa hardly looks rock-ribbed
Republican when thus set off.

It has, of course, usually chosen Republican governors and persistently named GOP congressmen.
But in 1954 Governor Hoegh, Republican, trailed for many hours and wound up winning by a relatively modest 25,000.

This isn't the whole story by any means. Careful research into Iowa's voting performance shows that in some of the better-off agricultural areas farmers have consistently tended to vote Democratic in presidential years by percentages greater than recorded in the state as a whole.

The more prosperous Iowa farmers appear to have had strong Democratic presidential leanings.

With this sentiment at work, it does not require too great a shift elsewhere to turn the state into the Democratic column. In 1948
some 53 Iowa counties went Democratic (of 99), and Harry Truman took the state.

There are signs, too, that many of the smaller Iowa towns dependent on farmers for a satisfactory level of business, have steadily been increasing the size of their Democratic vote.

Though Iowa is rated one of the two richest farm states in America, its heavy concentration on corn and hog production has linked its fortunes tightly with government policies on price supports and similar matters.

Thus it is highly sensitive to any price trend or other development which affects its farmers' incomes.
The record indicates that when trends are down, or there is a threat of trouble, the sensitive areas turn Democratic.

Consequently, far from being nearly automatic Republican, Iowa has in fact become one of the more delicately balanced states in the nation, politically.

It is likely to be one of the first to turn, rather than one of the last.
If there is a Democratic landslide in the making in this or any other year, its signs will have to be detected somewhere other than in the shifting soil of Iowa corn-lands.

"Dinner's Ready, Dear"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Congressional Probers Continue
Investigation of Justice Department Executive; Ike's Gettysburg Neighbors Want
Him Re-Elected; They Say
He's A Big Tourist Attraction
To Gettysburg.

WASHINGTON. — Despite Ed
Foote's hasty resignation as No. 2 man in the Justice Department's Antitrust Division, congressional investigators are still going over his stock-market transactions with a fine-tooth comb. He's the official who bought some $65,000 worth of oil stock in the Warren Petroleum-Gulf Oil merger just after he was called upon to pass on the merger. Foote ok'd the merger, then rushed out and bought stock in his wife's name.

It turns out he also bought and sold stock in many companies that were under investigation by the Antitrust Division. The trading was done in his wife's name, but Foote personally placed most of the orders.

For example, he bought $7,293
worth of Phillips Petroleum stock on July 26, 1955, and sold it for $8,221 on Feb. 21, 1956. During this same period Foote took an active interest in an antitrust case involving a Phillips-owned pipeline.

Foote also bought $14,049 worth of General Motors stock, but hastily sold it the same day for $13, 469 while the Antitrust Division was supposed to be investigating GM's handling of passenger cars.

Foote invested heavily in Chrysler and Ford, too, while their contracts with dealers were being investigated by his antitrust agents.

Foote purchased $7,355 worth of Chrysler stock on March 31, 1955,
and sold it for $8,725 on July 20, 1956. He bought $2,515 worth of Ford stock Jan. 26, 1956, sold it for $2,376 on March 13, 1956.

Foote also participated in reviewing an American Broadcasting Company-Paramount request to produce motion pictures free of antitrust objections. He chose this time to dabble in ABC-Paramount stock. He bought $2,767 worth on May 6, 1955. He sold his stock for $2,592 on Jan. 24, 1956

and $2,555 on April 4, 1956.

House investigators are also checking other possible conflicts of interest in Foote's stock-market trading.

IKE'S GETTYSBURG FARM

President Eisenhower's farm has attracted so many tourists to Gettysburg, Pa., that the local travel council is soliciting campaign contributions to keep Ike in office.

In a letter to businessmen-members, the Gettysburg Travel Council pleads for GOP donations, not for political reasons, but strictly for "our own self-interest."

"Although political philosophies are involved," says the letter which went to Democrats and Republicans alike, "it is not intended that this letter be considered a political solicitation. It is written after careful consideration and in the firm conviction that our own self-interest in the preservation of the prestige of Gettysburg and Adams county is of primary importance to us, and that the efforts each one of us puts forth are not only mandatory but are plain common sense."

The letter points out that "the eyes of the country will be on Adams county on November 6th, and one of the big stories of the election will be whether or not this county supported its distinguished neighbor and his program
—and to what extent. In 1952,
General Eisenhower carried
Adams county by more than 5,
200. Should he carry Adams county in 1956 by only that number—or by less—it will be the only unfavorable news story to spread itself across the country in the four years that the names Eisenhower and Gettysburg have been synonymous. Should he fail to carry the county, Gettysburg and Adams county stand disgraced before the world.

"Call it self-interest if you will," the letter adds. "That's about what it is. Gettysburg and Adams county have profited tremendously in dollars and, even more so, in priceless prestige-building publicity."

The travel council urged its members "to make sure that everybody votes on November 6 and that the vote is in support of the President" and to contribute "to the Republican finance committee of Pennsylvania, which, in turn,
finances the activities of the county committee."

This, claimed the council, "is an investment in Gettysburg's future."

Huge Empire

The Ottoman Turks first ap-and their empire, at the height of their power, stretched from the Persian Gulf to the Polish frontier

and from the shores of the Caspian Sea to Oran in Algeria.

Tips on Traffic Safety

By
CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

Now that the children have ended their vacations and returned to their schoolrooms every driver must be on the alert for school crossings.

In the majority of cases, school crossings are plainly marked by signs in the so-called "Caution Series." These are square signs with black lettering on a yellow background announcing "School."
"School Crossing Walk," or "Caution School Crossing." An alert driver is immediately aware of his responsibility to youngsters when approaching a school where such signs are posted. He should assume that responsibility by reducing his speed and being on the lookout for children.

In addition, some such crossings
have traffic signals warning motorists of their approach to a school crossing. These are of the red-flasher type. Drivers of all vehicles must stop before entering a crosswalk or intersection and shall yield the right-of-way to pedestrians before proceeding when they come to a signal of this type. (Section 33.1, Uniform Act Regulating Traffic.)

When warning signs or warning signals are posted announcing the approach to a school crossing there can be no excuse for a motorist to be in an "accident" involving a child.

A copy of the completely new "Rules of the Road" booklet will be sent to you free upon request.

TIER, Secretary of State, Spring-

Use of Aluminum On Cars to Grow

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — The 1957 model automobile will have about one-third again as much aluminum in it as the 1956 model, according to an official of the Reynolds Metals Co.

David P. Reynolds predicted that, on the average, each 1957 car will contain from 42 to 45 pounds of aluminum, compared with a 33-pound average for the 1956 cars.

"This sharp increase, to a great extent, is due to the rapidly increasing use of aluminum grills, trim moldings, emblems, window frames and ornamentation," Reynolds said, "and with the conversion of the last automatic transmission to aluminum, cast aluminum requirements are expected to increase about 20 per cent."

You know those shiny "gold"
and "silver" emblems and name plates on some of the glossier models? Anodize aluminum, really, and Reynolds said the automobile industry will be using more and more of it.

In fact, one high production model in 1957 will present a frontal appearance approaching a complete sterling silver appearance, through the use of aluminum.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D. D.
(Written for NEA Service)

REGARDLESS of how much we have in the way of material goods, or prestige or glory, we always want more than we presently have. We are never satisfied. This attitude is sometimes criticized as being a weakness in people. On the other hand, this desire for more is encouraged by many as a worthwhile motive.

The person who becomes satisfied with the status quo has little to raise his sights, and to keep him working toward higher goals.
It is no sin to desire one's own home or security or an education for one's children.

The mistake we sometimes
make is that we desire things merely to possess them, or at the expense of other people. When selfishness becomes supreme the desire for possessions become a sin. Most of us have learned to help others at the same time that we are advancing our own interests.

We need to recognize the desire for spiritual advancement as well as material advancement. Actually the more we have spiritually, the more we ought to desire. Let us set our sights spiritually as high as heaven.

The more of God we have the more we want and the more we can have. God is infinite in His being, His love and His goodness.
There is no end to His benevolence toward those who desire
His gifts.

First Church of God Missionary Society Meets

Mrs. E. C. Fisher was hostess Thursday evening to the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Church of God.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Layton Aldridge, and prayer was offered by Mrs. Aaron Dudley.

Minutes of the previous meeting and the treasurer's report were read by Mrs. Muriel Holland. A brief business session followed.

Mrs. Cecil Rhine gave a most inspiring devotion for the evening. The title of the lesson was "What About Tomorrow?"

An article was read by Mrs. Aldridge telling about the great need of missionaries in Alaska as well as many other parts of the nation. Announcements were made and the group then joined hands for a circle prayer with Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. Luther Alexander leading the prayer session.

Refreshments of chicken salad sandwiches, potato chips and Cokes were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Dudley. Others present included Mrs. Ed Hibbs, Mrs. Charles White, Mrs. Ed Keneipp, Mrs. Bess Aldridge, Mrs. Clifford Rector, Miss Beulah Livers, Rev. E. C. Fisher, Beth Ann Cuttress and Lenora Hibbs.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Mattox and son, David, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Adams of Pontiac, Mich., have returned to their homes after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Butler and Mr. and Mrs. James Rittenberry of Raleigh.

Miss Janet Greer and Miss Retta June Durfee returned Friday night from New Orleans, La., where they spent 10 days' vacation. The two drove through and also visited in Biloxi and Gulfport, Miss.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Kibler have moved to their new home, 1109 Feazel street. They formerly lived at 1300 Feazel.

HOLLYWOOD TODAY!
MOVIES - TV - RADIO
by Erskine Johnson

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—Hollywoodites Are Talking About: Rita Hayworth's former press agent now beating the space tom-toms for Miss Bundles-from-Britain—Diana Dors.

Director Elia Kazan's conviction that "hardly any star draws a thing at the box office any more. The old star system is dead, despite the fact that Hollywood has failed to recognize its demise." Kazan's now operating on the theory that films should be made with "fresh talent right for the parts and who have something to bring to the screen that hasn't been seen on the screen or on TV before."

Yes, the old stars may be dead at the box office, Mr. Kazan, but don't underestimate the box office punch of Marilyn Monroe, Audrey Hepburn, Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, Jimmy Stewart, Gina Lollobrigida, Frank Sinatra and others.

Edgar Bergen satirizing his own "Do You Trust Your Wife?" TV show in his new Las Vegas night club act. Comedian Jack Kirkwood will play the "trusting" husband.

GRACE KELLY's quotes that she'll never return to Hollywood for movie making. But I bet she could be lured into starring in a European-made flicker. That advertisement in a Palm Springs newspaper: "Swimming Pool for Sale. Swum in Only Once by Old Lady From Pasadena." Major film studios planning to release many of their post-1948 movies, now now barred from TV by talent guilds. The studios are offering the guilds 25 per cent of the profits to release the newer flickers on home screens.

George Raft's lament that there's no way for a veteran star to avoid over-exposure on television. Three of his old movies were shown consecutively on a Los Angeles TV station the other night. It added up to four and a half hours of George Raft.

After listening to Vittorio Gassman's rich accent in "War and Peace," Irving Brecher suggested a new title—"War and Pizza." Dean Martin winding up with Anna Maria Alberghetti and Eva Bartok as his leading ladies in MGM's

"10,000 Bedrooms." Didn't MGM promise Dean a couple of much bigger names—and isn't he burning about the whole thing? United Artists taking no chances. They just registered the titles, "Portrait in Black" and "Portrait in Red." Profit and Loss?

The Errol Flynn's making it a family affair in London. The star, wife Pat Wymore and his 14-year-old son, Sean, appear in two chapters of his new telenovela series, Sean, by the way, now stands 6 feet, 3 inches—taller than pop. Jack Benny sticking to half 'n' half for his 20 TV shows this season. Half film and half live.

The new man in Liz Taylor's life—Producer Mike Todd.

MARILYN MONROE's asking price now for appearing in a movie—75 per cent of the profits and complete ownership of the negative after seven years. Andy Devine's 17-year-old son, Dennis, wants to follow in papa's acting footsteps and has hired an agent. He played Andy's son in 1946 in "Canyon Passage." It was a bit role—but the acting bug hit. Sammy Davis, Jr. and Cordie King picking Las Vegas in February to tie the marriage knot. Elvis Presley is dating Jan Storey, a Hollywood night club cutie.

Alfred Hitchcock's frank quote about big names appearing on his TV shows in the future—"We will use name actors if we have the money to afford them." The impact of television in Italy, as reported by a Hollywood tourist: "Recently a bar in Venice, which had a TV set, became so overcrowded with TV viewers that the floors caved in and six people were injured."

Tiny Animal

One of the tiniest hoofed animals is the mouse deer, or Chevrotin, of tropical Asia and Africa. About a foot high, the male is hornless, but has short tusks.

Species Not Sex

"Bullfrog" refers to a specific species of large frog and the sex of the animal is not involved in the name, so the female also is a bullfrog.

NEWSPAPERBOY HONORED—President Eisenhower admires the "Outstanding Newspaper Carrier Boy" pin worn by Andy Williams, 14, of Ames, Ia., "typical" newspaperboy, at the White House as the Chief Executive pays tribute to the nation's 600,000 carriers. Ceremony climaxed the annual observance of National Newspaper Week. (NEA Telephoto)

Open Senate Hearings on Political Spending, Job Selling, Lobbying

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three Senate committees today opened separate investigations into political spending, political job-selling and lobbying.

The sudden burst of hearings ended a lull in Senate committee activities and carried possible repercussions for the November elections.

The committees rolling into action were:

1. The Senate Elections subcommittee, headed by Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.). It is investigating how many millions of dollars are being spent in the current political campaign.

The subcommittee has prepared an estimate of how much the two major political parties plan to spend on radio-television time to boost their candidates. Its three days of hearings will be climaxed Wednesday by testimony from both national party chairmen.

2. The special lobbying committee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan. It resumed investigations into procedures used to influence federal legislation.

The committee was scheduled to hear more testimony about the activities surrounding the controversial natural gas bill, but it also planned to consider lobbying for other legislation, such as the social security bill.

3. The Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee, headed by Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC). Johnston said his group would look into charges of alleged Republican job-selling, bribery and "other improper political influence" in the postal service in Texas.

One of the political groups called by the Gore subcommittee to report today on campaign spending was Americans for Democratic Action.

In an opening statement prepared for the subcommittee, Robert R. Nathan, chairman of the executive committee for ADA, proposed that the government require radio and television networks "to make a reasonable amount of free time" available to candidates for president and vice president.

"The tens of millions of dollars paid to the radio-television industry for political campaigning is an unconscionable and indefensible levy on the American voter," Nathan said.

Injured When Auto Overturns

Kenneth W. Hutcherson of Halls, Tenn., suffered chest injuries and was taken to the Harrisburg hospital for treatment when his car overturned on the Venice curve on Route 45 near Muddy early Saturday, State Policeman Roy A. Lane reported. He was thrown from the car.

Hutcherson was en route home from the north, where he had been working, Lane stated. He was by himself in the auto.

Predict Billion Tons Annual Coal Production

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Director Marling J. Ankeny of the U. S. Bureau of Mines today said current coal production was about 500 million tons annually but predicted it would double in another 20 years. Ankeny told the 3,000 delegates at the United Mine Workers convention between 1975 and 1980 coal production in the United States should reach a billion tons annually.

Jimmy Durante to Wed Actress, 35

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Comedian Jimmy Durante, 63, has announced plans to marry 35-year-old Hollywood actress Margie Little "sometime next year." The comedian revealed his wedding plans Saturday at the opening of the Paradise Valley Racquet Club. Both Durante and Miss Little, from Plainfield, N. J., were among the Hollywood personalities present at the affair.

To Test New Polio Vaccine

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—World wide tests will begin next year on a newly-developed polio vaccine that can be taken through the mouth in a pleasant-tasting syrup.

Announcement of the tests, considered by medical experts to be of major importance, was made by Dr. Albert B. Sabin, University of Cincinnati scientist.

Sabin said he hoped the tests will show that one dose of the vaccine is all that's needed to provide lifetime protection, or at least for many years of a person's life.

The Sabin vaccine, which is given orally, differs from the Salk vaccine in that it utilizes "live" polio virus. The strain is weakened so that it provides immunity without danger to the human body.

The Salk vaccine, containing "killed" polio virus, is injected into the body.

"We now find," said Dr. Sabin, "that when a live, attenuated vaccine is given by mouth, a changed virus is produced in the intestinal tract resistant to further infection by the polio virus."

"Thus," he said, "if large scale treatment is given, the soil for virus infection is eliminated."

Boat Explodes, Mother Helps Save 5 Children

WASHINGTON (AP)—A heroic mother played a key role in the rescue of her five children Sunday when their cabin cruiser exploded and burned in the Potomac River.

Alexander Walter Gompers, grandson of Samuel Gompers, founder of the American Federation of Labor, was hurled into the choppy waters of the lower Potomac along with his wife and children by an explosion aboard their 26-foot craft.

Gompers, 50, who cannot swim, said his 37-year-old wife, Mary, an excellent swimmer—returned to the flaming boat and grabbed life preservers, managing to get them on three of the children—Donna Helen, 9, Walter, 7, and Samuel 6.

William Terry Long, 14-year-old son of Mrs. Gompers by a previous marriage, held James 4, above water until help arrived. Gompers held onto a life preserver until rescuers arrived.

Mrs. Gompers and all five children were admitted to St. Mary's hospital at Leonardtown, Md., for treatment for shock and exhaustion.

Gompers, who was treated and released, said a fuel line may have broken loose as the craft bucked four-foot-high waves and spilled gasoline on the hot motor.

Tells of Turning Over $85,000 to Epping

worth of state checks signed by Hodge.

Gave Epping Cash
Schlitz said he didn't notice who the payees were, or who endorsed the checks, but merely added their total, $85,000, and handed Epping the cash.

Schlitz testified that state checks signed by Hodge were not entered in the bank's regular accounts. Cash with which to pay the checks were kept in a brown envelope, he said.

Schlitz said he kept the envelope in a box in his cage, and that when agents of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. conducted their annual examination they checked the cash in his drawer but did not look in the box, which was "sitting on top of the counter."

"They had no reason look in it," Schlitz told Fulbright. Schlitz, who now is an officer of the Southmoor bank, said he never questioned the "irregular" procedure.

He said Hintz kept the record of the notorious "envelope account" for Hodge in an old fashioned black ledger book.

He said Hintz approved the false endorsements on the back, and that he felt he had no authority to question the bank president.

Didn't Question Procedure
"I figured he and Mr. Hodge knew what they were doing. It wasn't my problem," Schlitz said.

He said he was "not the only one" who handled the fraudulent state checks, which were made out to people or firms who allegedly had done business with the state.

His remark created a stir in the crowded courtroom because no other bank employee previously had been mentioned in connection with the handling of the checks, but Schlitz did not elaborate and Fulbright did not pursue the question.

Later, Schlitz said Hintz' secretary, Caroline Marshall, frequently typed the endorsements on the checks, and that the head of the bookkeeping department had been advised that all such checks bearing Hodge's signature would be handled by Hintz or Schlitz.

Schlitz said he did not question Hintz about the procedure and did not notify FDIC examiners because "I've got a wife, two kids and a mortgage on my house. It wasn't any of my business. In the banking business you do what your superiors tell you or you get your coat and hat and walk out the door."

Schlitz said money in the "envelope account" totaled as high as $35,000. He said the cash came from a feat of bookkeeping juggling which balanced supply of cash with the checks Hodge had written in the past.

He said Hodge's wife, Margaret, got $85,000 in loans from the bank at only 3 1/2 per cent interest. He said the interest was "lower than normal" and assumed it was because Mrs. Hodge was the wife of the man who had regulatory powers over all Illinois banks.

Two Dead in Marion Shooting

MARION, Ill. (AP)—Two ex-coal miners who had lived together 20 years are dead after a shooting here Sunday.

Authorities said Vincenzo Dazzo, 78, apparently turned an automatic pistol on himself after wounding his friend, Mike Russo, 80, with four shots. Russo died about three hours after the shooting in Marion Memorial Hospital.

Before he died, Russo told authorities that Dazzo suddenly produced the gun and began firing at him for no apparent reason.

Claims Self-Defense In Fatal Stabbing

PITTSFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Authorities said a self-styled direct descendant of frontier hero Davy Crockett has claimed self-defense in the fatal stabbing of a 27-year-old Moline man.

David Crockett Sr., 63, Nebo, told State's Atty. Brice Irving here that he knifed Richard Kent Sunday night during a quarrel in a nearby farm home.

Kent succumbed to the knife wounds while en route to a hospital in a car driven by his wife, which crashed into a telephone pole when she lost control. Kent's wife was not injured.

Larsen Hurls Perfect World Series Game

It was no match for Larsen's. Larsen, who couldn't hold a 6-0 lead in the second game of the series, justified the faith which Yankee Manager Casey Stengel put in him last spring after he had wrapped his new automobile around a telephone pole in St. Petersburg, Fla., at 5 a. m., during spring training.

Stengel announced that because it was the first time Larsen had violated the curfew he would forgive him.

Today, Larsen paid his debt in full as the Yankees went one game up in the series, and now need only one more triumph to close it out.

The sixth game will be played at Ebbets Field Tuesday and if a seventh game is necessary it also will be played in Brooklyn on Wednesday.

Autos Collide Near Equality

Two cars were damaged but there were no injuries when two cars collided on Route 13 near Equality about 9 a. m. today.

State Policeman Roy A. Lane said a vehicle driven by Paul Tite of Junction, going west, skidded into the path of an approaching car driven by Cecil C. Simpson of Eldorado, the two machines colliding, when a car driven by George Sisk, in front of Tite, slowed to make a left turn.

The Sisk car was not involved in the collision.

Galatia Pumps Water From New Lake Into Its Reservoir

Water from the new Galatia lake today was being pumped into the Galatia reservoir, which was getting low.

Galatia constructed a new lake about the time that this city built its Lake Harrisburg, and the Galatia lake has an ample supply of water.

The system of getting water is similar to that used by Harrisburg. The water runs downstream from the Galatia lake and is pumped into the reservoir.

Carbondale Rejects, Murphysboro Votes For New School Building

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP)—Carbondale High School District voters have turned down a proposal to build a new high school.

But at nearby Murphysboro, construction of a new junior high school was given the green light.

Inquest Tonight

Coroner Elmer M. Gibbons announced that the inquest into the death of Glen Long, 44, Eldorado, fatally injured last week in a collision on Route 13 at Equality, would be held at 6:30 tonight at the Eldorado city hall.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H.® At your druggist. Money back guarantee. *Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

THE LONG NIGHT

John left the tent. The wind was stronger, bit deeper. He felt grateful for the jacket, but it failed to prevent his shivering. It was a good 13 blocks to the medical post, and he had to hurry.

Maybe Sue was hurt bad. They didn't take any cases which could walk, he remembered. Only those who needed attention right away. Maybe... she might even be dying. The thought appalled him. Impossible! It couldn't be. But she was hurt... that seemed positive.

Apprehension spurred him on; he broke into a trot.

John approached a police officer. "Where can I get some information on somebody who came through here?"

"How would I know, Mac? I been outside here since they set this place up." He blew clouds of fog through his lips. "Check around in the back somewhere."

He walked around the tents. One man knelt on the ground, writing names on white tags which he affixed to the wounded waiting for transportation to permanent medical buildings.

"Can you help me, please?" he asked.

The man glanced up, went back to his writing with a snapped, "What is it?"

"My girl was evacuated through here a couple hours ago. At least I think she was... she was hurt pretty bad. Where can I check on it?"

"Can't. Got no permanent records here."

The curt reply took John by surprise. "But wouldn't somebody... at least know about her? Wouldn't anyone know?"

"Like I told you. No records. We just get 'em in here, sew 'em up and ship 'em out."

He finished tying the tag to the unconscious patient at his feet, stood up and waved to two men to take the stretcher away. "Put this one in the big truck, Phil.

Two more and you can pull out." He walked away, bent down over another stretcher. John ran after him. "Where do you send them? Which hospital can I go to so I can find out about her?"

The other man bent down over the stretcher case, pushed back an eyelid, felt for an absent heartbeat. He looked around for assistance, but every person was occupied.

"Hey you," he turned to John, "give me a hand. Pick up this stretcher form that end."

John hesitated, then did as the man said. He grasped the wooden handles, lifted in concert with the stranger. "This way," he told John, "I'll lead."

John grunted with the sudden weight. "Is he dead?" he inquired.

"Dead as he'll ever be."

"Around this corner." The man stopped. "Hold it here for a second. Okay. Put it down now."

He dropped the stretcher, and only then did John take notice of the heaping mound with its canvas cover. He had not the slightest idea what lay beneath that jumbled pile.

"Hey, grab hold that canvas sheet on the bottom. That's right, over there. Now, pull it to the right."

John heaved. His mind screamed. The blow was almost physical; he felt the blood draining from his face. He gasped; involuntarily he stepped back, hand to his mouth.

The mound... human beings! Dead! It was nearly five feet high, already more than 20 feet across.

The dead were heaped like rag dolls. Arms and legs askew. Heads twisted at crazy angles, as if they were in pain. Open mouths. That girl! She had blonde hair... like Sue... oh no, no NO NO!

He forced himself to look... to stare.

It wasn't Sue.

The other man looked at him. "Sorry, fella," he said, "I should have warned you."

He looked at John. "You get used to this in a hurry. We ain't got no place to put 'em, except out here. You okay now?"

He nodded, unable to speak.

"All right. Grab this guy's legs, and throw 'em up on the pile. Don't worry, you can't hurt him no more."

Sick, John did as he was instructed. The medical worker walked up to John and placed his hand on his shoulder.

"I know, kid," he said softly, "but we can't do nothing about that now. C'mon, let's move out of here."

As they walked, he asked, "What's your girl look like?"

"About five three. Nineteen years old. She's blonde, wears her hair short. Quite pretty. Her name's Wilson. Sue Wilson."

The man stopped. "Wait a minute—wait a minute," he said, "that name, it rings a bell."

Hope flared within John. Maybe, maybe, after all... "What about her?" He grasped the worker by the arm, almost shouting, "Tell me."

"Take it easy, kid." John relaxed his grip. The man rubbed his chin. "I think I remember a kid come through here maybe three hours ago," he said. "I ain't sure, but... you say she was blonde, about 19?"

John nodded rapidly, breathlessly anxious for any information.

"She have any identification on her, y'know, like a bracelet or something, with her name on it?"

"Yes! Yes, she wears a bracelet on her left hand, I gave it to her for her birthday last month, it has two hearts in the middle with our names engraved..."

Bull Pups Play Mt. Vernon Here Tonight

The Harrisburg Bull Pups, who broke into the victory column last week at Eldorado, will play at Taylor Field tonight. Opponent will be the Mt. Vernon freshman-sophomore football team. Game time is seven o'clock.

Legion Wins Tourney Saturday Night, Doubleheader Sunday

The Harrisburg Legion baseball team defeated Murphysboro, 3-2, Saturday night to win the Invitational baseball tournament which was held at the VFW field and Sunday the Legion won a doubleheader from Evansville, 11-7 and 7-2.

John Romonosky and Murl Gieger, two of the St. Louis Cardinals' top minor league pitchers, hooked up in a real pitching duel Saturday night and Romonosky and the Legion came out on top with a 3-2 win and the championship of the tournament.

Romonosky, using his blazing fast ball and mixing up with curves and change-up, pitched a four-hitter against the hard-hitting Red Wings.

Gieger used his fast ball and fast curves with a good change-up to hold the Legion to six bingles. Crossin, Marnati, Korando and Koenig picked up the Red Wings' four hits and Dick Odle and Harold Guley, with two hits each, and J. Romonosky and Dailey, with singles, accounted for the Legion's six hits.

Romonosky had 18 strikeouts and Gieger had a total of 14.

In Sunday's game the visitors jumped out to a three-run lead in the first inning and it looked mighty big as Billy Dale, a Texas League hurler, was pitching, but in the third the Legion jumped on him and scored five runs on three walks, four hits and a fielder's choice.

Cardinals, Lions Still Unbeaten

By United Press
The Chicago Cardinals and the Detroit Lions, picked to go nowhere in the National Football League this year, today reigned as the pro loop's only undefeated teams following the second weekend of action.

Almost before you could say Bert Bell, such perennial powers as the Cleveland Browns, New York Giants and Los Angeles Rams have suffered shocking upsets, leaving the Cardinals and Lions as the surprise leaders of their respective divisions.

The Cardinals followed up their opening victory over the defending champion Browns by dumping the Giants, 35-27, Sunday at Chicago. In other Sunday games, the San Francisco Forty-Niners upset the Rams, 33-30, and the Chicago Bears walloped the Green Bay Packers, 37-21.

The Lions rolled to a 31-14 victory over the Baltimore Colts on Saturday night while the Browns rallied to defeat the Pittsburgh Steelers, 14-10, and the Philadelphia Eagles stopped the Washington Redskins, 13-9.

The Lions will get their first real test next Sunday when they entertain the Rams. Elsewhere, the Cardinals will be at Cleveland, the Eagles at Pittsburgh, the Bears host the Forty-Niners, and the Packers play the Colts at Milwaukee.

Duke Snider is Sued for $75,000 Over Foul Ball

CINCINNATI — Duke Snider, slugging outfielder of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was sued for $75,000 today because he hit a foul ball instead of a home run at Crosley Field here during the 1954 season.

Dovie Green, Cincinnati, filed the suit in Common Pleas Court. She said she suffered a fractured arm June 13, 1954, while sitting back of third base. The suit also said her $75 watch was broken.

The defendant, an expert with a bat and a home run artist, so negligently swung his bat as to cause said ball to fowl like an unguided flying saucer. The defendant was physically unfit to wield said bat and he wobbled his body in such a wanton manner as to cause the ball to take a wild course rather than a home run, striking this plaintiff with great force and violence.

Oklahoma Crushes Kansas State, 66-0, for 32nd Straight; New Record

By United Press
Oklahoma's national champion Sooners put a new major college record in the football books today with their 32nd straight victory, and folks are wondering if anyone will even score against them as they shoot for Notre Dame's record of 39 straight unbeaten games.

By crushing Kansas State, 66-0, on Saturday for its second win of this campaign, Oklahoma ran its total for the year to 102 points scored against none for their rivals.

The mark of 32 straight wins eclipses the 31 straight Oklahoma itself posted from 1948 through 1950. If the Sooners win or do no worse than tie in their remaining eight games of this campaign, they'll top the major college mark for consecutive games without a loss set by Notre Dame from 1945 through 1950.

Clendon Thomas was the pace-maker for Oklahoma in its easy romp over Kansas State, scoring three touchdowns on runs during the first 20 minutes of play. But seven other Sooners backs had a hand in the scoring as Oklahoma posted its 58th straight Big Seven Conference win.

With Oklahoma calling the tune, it was another football weekend that stuck pretty close to the form sheet. About the biggest surprise were Pennsylvania's 14-7 win over Dartmouth; the Quakers' first triumph since 1953; and California's 14-0 decision over Pittsburgh.

Michigan State, the nation's No. 2 team, won Saturday's "big game" by 9-0 over fourth-ranked Michigan, but were "out - statistied" and needed two breaks to do it. Both were supplied by John Herrstein, Michigan's brilliant 18 year old soph, who had his only pass intercepted to set up a State TD and fumbled to set up a field goal.

Michigan and Pittsburgh, ranked No. 7 nationally, were the only top-ranked teams to tumble. Of the others who saw action, Ohio State (No. 5) followed Jim Rose-

Nebraska Girl Is Dairy Princess

CHICAGO (AP)—Shari Lewis, a 20-year-old Daykin, Neb., farm girl, reigned today as the 1957 American Dairy Princess.

Miss Lewis, who drinks a quart of milk a day, was chosen Sunday at the International Dairy Show and will represent the American Dairy Assn. during the coming year.

Norma Sue Davis, 20, of Miami, Okla., was selected alternate queen.

Miss Lewis, 5-6 brown haired beauty who was third runner-up for the title of Miss U.S.A. this summer, also won a $1,000 cash scholarship, a complete wardrobe and a gilded cowbell.

Nixon, Kefauver Agree Israel Must Be Preserved, But Differ on Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. Estes Kefauver agreed Sunday that preserving the state of Israel is in the best interests of the United States.

But the two vice presidential candidates, in speeches to the 59th annual Zionist convention, differed as to whether the Eisenhower administration is doing enough to help establish peace in the Middle East.

Nixon said that President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles have worked ceaselessly to promote peace between Israel and its Arab neighbors. This, he said, will continue to be one of the administration's "top objectives."

He said the administration recognizes that "preservation of the independence of Israel is in the best interests" of the United States and "of world peace itself."

He said that making the Middle East crisis a political issue "will serve neither the interests of Israel or the United States."

Kefauver, who spoke at a different time but from the same platform as Nixon, attacked administration Middle East policies and Mr. Eisenhower personally. He said "pious platitudes from no matter how high a source will never bring about the kind of peace for which the whole world yearns."

He also charged that Dulles helped bring on Egypt's seizure of the Suez Canal by offering U. S. help to the Egyptians to build the Aswan dam and then backing down later on the offer. He said this was "a high price to pay for the privilege of watching Mr. Dulles show off like the handsome young man on the flying trapeze."

KARLSRUHE, Germany (AP)—Police said today an 80-year-old suitor threw hydrochloric acid in the face of his 43-year-old girl
